What Future Works is (one paragraph for vendors)

Future Works is the AI-native transformation engine. We rebuild the operations that move the P&L (manufacturing, energy, health and life sciences, logistics, and supply chain) in twelve-week cycles, run by named senior experts orchestrating fleets of AI agents. A third of every fee is staked on a value target the client's Finance team validates. We deliver in twelve weeks what incumbents quote at two years.

Trust frame to lead with: Secure. Composable. Auditable.

Current lead magnets

1. The 100x AI book (flagship)

Link: https://leap.guide
Format: Amazon bestseller, hardcover and Kindle.
Use it for: Executive gifting, first-touch outbound, event handouts, board reading lists.
Positioning: The operating manual behind Future Works. Frames the shift from labor-hour consulting to AI-native transformation, named experts plus agents, and outcome-staked economics.
Talk track: "It is the book behind the twelve-week cycle model. If you have read it, you already know how we work."

2. LEAP Guide

Link: https://leap.guide
Format: Companion landing page to the book.
Use it for: Warm intros where the buyer wants the frame before the meeting.
Positioning: Short read on what AI-native transformation looks like inside an enterprise, and why pilots stall.

3. Quarterly value magnet: Free AI Budget

Link: https://future.works/free-budget/
Format: Downloadable guide, refreshed quarterly.
Use it for: CFO and CIO conversations about where to point the next AI dollar.
Positioning: Practical view of where AI spend actually shows up in the P&L, with the categories a CFO will recognize.

4. Bi-weekly newsletter

Link: https://news.future.works
Format: Email, every two weeks.
Use it for: Long-cycle prospects, dormant accounts, procurement contacts you want to keep warm.
Positioning: Field notes from named experts running live cycles. No listicles. No recycled news.

6. Solution briefs (industry-agnostic, problem-anchored)

Each brief maps to one of the five problem domains we sell into. Match the brief to the buyer's stated P&L problem, not their industry.

Language rules for vendors representing Future Works

- Company name is Future Works (two words) in prose.
- Do not quote prices, percentage comparisons, or the word "cheaper" on public channels. Commercial detail stays in commercial conversations.
- Do not name our internal frameworks or codenames publicly. Describe the technology: "proprietary AI-native operating system," "proprietary agent orchestration," "value architecture framework."
- Anchor claims to a proof point. If you cannot cite one, do not make the claim.
- Avoid: "AI-powered," "revolutionary," "game-changing," "best-in-class," "disrupt," "leverage" as a verb, and the "not just X, it is Y" construction.
